

Faculty of Medicine Makes it on to World Directory of Medical Schools

The International Joint Medicine Program offered as a result of the collaboration between the Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Faculty of Medicine and the Marmara University Faculty of Medicine was acknowledged by the World Federation of Medical Education and the Foundation for Advancement of International Medical Education and Research on the 17th of February 2017 and added to the World Directory of Medical Schools (WDOMS). As a result, Medicine Faculty students will be eligible to take the United States Medical Licensing Examination (USMLE) which could allow them to specialise in the USA.

WDOMS is a joint World Federation for Medical Education (WFME) and Foundation for Advancement of International Medical Education Research (FAIMER) initiative. WDOMS is comprised of FAIMER's International Medical Education Directory (IMED) database and WFME's Avicenna database. Institutional information such as faculty names, affiliations, acceptance criteria, duration of syllabus and program details are stored in WDOMS.

Those who completed their medicine education in a country other than USA or Canada and want to specialise in the USA, require an Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG) certificate. In order to obtain an ECFMG certificate students must be graduates of a school on the World Directory of Medical Schools.

In his statement EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Necdet Osam, noted that they are very pleased about the achievement and that EMU Rector's Office will continue to proceed according to their vision and goals. Prof. Dr. Osam also stated that they greatly value accreditations for all programs and that they are studiously carrying out the required work in order to add other programs to global literature. Providing a reminder of the fact that EMU is the first and only university from the TRNC appearing on the Times Higher Education World Rankings, Prof. Dr. Osam noted that they are very happy about the latest achievement from the Faculty of Medicine.

EMU Faculty of Medicine Dean Prof. Dr. Nahide Gökçora stated that they have been running the English-medium joint Medicine program with Marmara University Faculty of Medicine since 2012, going on to state that the faculty aims to raise competent, knowledgeable doctors with correct demeanours who can meet the requirements of global communities. Stating that modern medicine education should require students to obtain both national and international experience/education Prof. Dr. Gökçora noted that the recognition of medicine programs is important not only in terms of ensuring that the quality of education provided is at an international level but also as it provides the opportunity for graduates to continue their education or careers internationally.

EMU Faculty of Medicine students expressed their satisfaction regarding the quality of education they receive at the faculty stating that they are proud to say that the faculty has proven its conformity to international standards. EMU Faculty of Medicine pre-clinical student representative Buse Ataoğlu and clinical 5th year international student Whitney Onuorah thanked EMU and Marmara University Rectorate on behalf of all students for the recognition gained by the joint program describing this as 'wonderful' news. Stating that this achievement is very important for them, the students described the recognition as paving the way to their dream of specialising in the United States.

EMU Faculty Of Tourism Undergoing TedQual Accreditation Process For The Third Time

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Faculty of Tourism is undergoing the "Quality Assurance for Tourism Education" (TedQual) accreditation process. Known as one of the most prestigious accreditations, TedQual is the only United Nations World Tourism Organisation (UNWTO) certificate given to education and research at an international level. Educational institutions that hold the certificate obtain the opportunity to collaborate with other global institutions and participate in projects supported by UNWTO.

EMU Faculty of Tourism that has had TedQual accreditation since 2002, is the first university in Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) to hold this certificate. EMU Faculty of Tourism is undergoing inspection for the third time and being evaluated according to six criteria (students, academic staff, administrative structure, global tourism ethic codes, infrastructure facilities and graduates). As part of the criteria TedQual inspector and World Tourism Ethics Committee member Dr. Hatough met with second and fourth year Tourism and Hospitality Management program students and took notes about education, faculty management, infrastructure, accommodation, food and beverage as well as sporting and social activities. In addition to students Dr. Hatough met with academic staff speaking about the running of courses, assessments, the importance of updating course material and using new education technologies as well as her satisfaction regarding the usage of applied education in Tourism. Coming together with faculty administration at the beginning and end of the inspection process Dr. Hatough expressed her satisfaction regarding the administrative structure and functioning of the faculty. Finally, noting that the subject of tourism ethics is new to the TedQual inspection, Dr. Hatough stated that EMU Tourism Faculty should undertake a role model mission in North Cyprus regarding global tourism ethics.

Visit to Prof. Dr. Osam

in his office and received extensive information about the university. Prof. Dr. Osam talked about the significance of accreditation and quality, stating that EMU is the first and only university from the TRNC to feature on The Times Higher Education (THE) World Rankings. Noting that they are closely following the national and international success of the Tourism Faculty Prof. Dr. Osam expressed his happiness regarding this success and went on to say that support and contribution to the Tourism Faculty will increase. EMU Faculty of Tourism Dean Prof. Dr. Hasan Kılıç and academic staff member Assoc. Prof. Dr. Ali Özturan were also present at the visit.

EMU Academic Staff Member Presents International Proceedings Book to Prof. Dr. Osam

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Ataturk Research and Application Center Academic Staff

member Dr. Turgay Bülent Göktürk, presented the proceedings book of the symposium titled "International Symposium on the Cyprus Issue and Its Future with International Aspects" to EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Osam. The symposium was hosted by EMU and resulted from an EMU Ataturk Research and Application Center and Turkish Republic Atatürk Supreme Council of Culture, Language and History Atatürk Research Center Directorate collaboration.

During the visit Dr. Göktürk provided information about the proceedings book that also included the conference paper "Johnson Letter in the Turkish Grand National Assembly Records and After". Dr. Göktürk noted that the book includes 36 conference papers from the symposium that lasted for a period of two days and featured domestic and foreign academicians. Prof. Dr. Osam noted that they always support academic work from within the university and that they hope to see the continuation of such work in the future.

First Postgraduate Student Graduates from EMU Department of Nursing

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Health Sciences Faculty, Department of Nursing has given its first Postgraduate level graduate. The Health Sciences Faculty started accepting postgraduate students for the Department of Nursing in the 2015-2016 Academic Year.

'Trainer Development Program' Completed at EMU Dr. Fazıl Küçük Medicine Faculty

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Dr. Fazıl Küçük Medicine Faculty carried out a "Trainer Development Program" for academic staff members of the Joint International Medicine Program with Marmara University and state hospital affiliated doctors who are interested in becoming part of the teaching staff. The program took place between the 16th and 18th of February 2017. During a ceremony that took place at the end of the program, participants were handed their participation certificates by EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Necdet Osam and EMU Dr. Fazıl Küçük Medicine Faculty Dean Prof. Dr. Nahide Gökçora.

The training was provided by, Marmara University Faculty of Medicine academic staff member and EMU Dr. Fazıl Küçük Medicine Faculty- Marmara University Joint International Medicine Program Coordinator Assoc. Prof. Dr. Mehmet Ali Gülpınar and Student Affairs Coordinator Assoc. Prof. Dr. Can Erzik. During the training, various topics including "Modern approaches in medicine education", "Interactive learning methods in large classes and small groups", "Latest global developments in assessment and evaluation" and "Instructive competency" were discussed. In addition, many learning and evaluation exercises were carried out in small groups.

The academic staff members and Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) Ministry of Health doctors who attended the training program stated that the 3-day training has been a very productive and entertaining experience. They also stated that they learned to look at education through the lens of students which is very important.

Doctors from the state hospital thanked the organizers of the event that was made possible as part of the affiliation protocol signed between TRNC Ministry of Health and EMU Dr. Fazıl Küçük Medicine Faculty, for giving them the opportunity to think about how they can make use of their professional experiences in the field of education.

Participants noted that universities should carry out activities for the benefit of the community stating that they witnessed developments in university-sector collaborations. They also expressed that they witnessed the importance of "polyphony", "individual differences between students", "different points of view" and "respecting differences" during the interactive learning group work. A doctor described the education he received as "advanced" noting "I just saw how scientific the education here is". The doctor went on to indicate that they learned a lot and carried out new exercises that led to a review of the education activities they previously witnessed, making them happy to see that they were on the correct path.

Guest Appearance by Mehmet Harmancı on EMU "City and Architecture" Program

Nicosia Turkish Municipality Mayor Mehmet Harmancı appeared as a guest on Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) TV produced television program "City and Architecture". The program was moderated by EMU Architecture Faculty, Department of Architecture academic staff member Asst. Prof. Dr. Ercan Hoşkara and EMU TV presenter Çiğdem Duvarcı. During the program, the collaboration protocol between EMU and the Nicosia Turkish Municipality was addressed as well as the Nicosia Master Plan.

Nicosia Turkish Municipality Mayor Mehmet Harmancı provided information about the content of the protocol that was signed on the 10th of February 2017 regarding academic, scientific, social and cultural collaboration as well as the revision of the Nicosia Master Plan. Harmancı explained that the Municipality has been in contact with EMU for a long period of time, deliberating on what sort of collaborations could take place. Harmancı stated that both technical and physical support will be available if required as a result of the protocols signed, concluding by noting that work will be carried out regarding changing the Nicosia Master Plan.

Highlighting the fact that Nicosia is the only city in the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus to be run with a Master Plan, Harmancı provided a reminder that this Master Plan must be revised once every 5 years. Expressing that the Nicosia Turkish Municipality has come to the end of a difficult period of economic troubles, Harmancı stated that they have now entered a period where projects can be implemented more easily and that they want to complete important urban design projects.

Harmancı also expressed his opinion about EMU setting up a campus in Nicosia by noting that an institution like EMU would add value to the city. Harmancı went on to state that they will be in a struggle to create an area in the city where the community and the university will meet, indicating that he believes the theatre building in Nicosia can be transformed into a cultural centre where the performing arts can be practiced. In addition, he stated his belief that carrying out different models like vocational education in the Nicosia Walled City would be of great use.
